GERMANY REFUSES TO DELIVER COAL AS ALLIES DEMAND

AND GERMAN TERRITORY WILL BE OCCUPIED BY FRENCH TROOPS TO ENFORCE DEMANDS

MARSHAL FOCH HAS BEEN SUMMONED BY SPA COUNCIL TO FORM PLANS FOR MILITARY ACTION

By CARL D. GROAT

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Spa, Belgium, July 14—With the summoning of Marshal Foch and Field Marshal Sir Henry Willson, allied occupation of German territory and other measures to enforce the Versailles treaty seemed inevitable today.

Germany flatly refused to meet the allied demand for two million tons of coal monthly, resulting in suspension of the conference and calling of the allied military leaders. Plans have been completed for action against Germany. Unless some solution of the situation is reached today the French army on the Rhine will be ordered to proceed into Germany.

Although the German foreign minister, Herr Simons, declared Germany was without military means to resist an allied invasion, members of the Belgian delegation said that there was a likelihood Germany would attempt to prevent the occupation of the Ruhr by force.

Await Field Marshal Wilson's Arrival.

Spa, Belgium, July 14—Following a two hour conference between Premier Lloyd George and Millerand, Count Sforza, Italian foreign minister, and Marshal Foch, it was decided to await the arrival of Field Marshal Sir Henry Willson before announcing the allies' plans for enforcement of the treaty terms as a result of Germany's refusal to meet the allied coal demands.

Walter Simons, German minister of foreign affairs, declared the German delegation was still firm in its rejection of the allied demand.

Germans Will Leave Spa
Paris, July 14—The German delegation has announced its intention of leaving Spa this afternoon, according to a dispatch here today.

LABOR CLASSES COX AS FRIEND

SAID WM. GREEN, SECRETARY-TREASURER OF THE UNITED MINE WORKERS

HERBERT WALKER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Columbus, Ohio, July 14—Labor in general classifies Governor Cox, the democratic nominee, as a "real friend." Wm. Green, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, declared here today after a conference with the Ohio governor.

"The working man never forgets a real friend, and my opinion is that a majority of labor believes Cox comes within that classification," Green said in answering a question as to labor's opinion of Cox.

Green said he did not call on the nominee to obtain his labor views, but to congratulate him on his nomination. With Green was Matthew Woil, one of the vice-presidents of the A. F. of L.

NEW THIRD PARTY GOES TO PIECES BEFORE NOMINATION

SENATOR LaFOLLETTE REFUSED TO ACCEPT NOMINATION ON RADICAL PLATFORM

(By United Press)

Chicago, July 14—The new third party will function without the guiding hands of the leaders of the committee of forty-eight, it was learned from high authority today.

Further Senator Robert M. LaFollette has refused through his representatives, to become the party presidential nominee.

This development resulted in the American labor party finally maneuvering itself into complete domination of the situation with apparent anchoring of the party to an ultra radical program.

The impasse was reached in an all night meeting of the leaders of the laborites and forty-eighters which broke up at 5 A. M. As a result the following moves were in prospect when the joint labor and forty-eight convention reconvened today.

Robert Buck, Idaho, was scheduled to submit for ratification the extreme platform which the forty-eighters refused to accept, and which isolated LaFollette. Basil Manley, of Ohio, possibly will offer as a "minority report" the platform formulated by the committee of forty-eight from their St. Louis platform with changes suggested by LaFollette.

As a last resort a tentative effort might be made by leaders of the committee of forty-eight to withdraw their delegates from the joint convention and form their own "third party." The success of the latter obviously would be remote as a majority of the original forty-eight convention went on record favoring surrender to the laborites.

Will Name Candidate for President

Carmen's Hall, Chicago, July 14—The new-born unnamed third party went into session shortly after 10 o'clock today with announced attention of selecting a candidate for the presidential campaign.

Extreme radicals were boosting Eugene V. Debs for the nomination. Conservatives were still hopeful Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, might be induced to head the ticket.

Rewrite Platform

Carmen's Hall, Chicago, July 14—The amalgamated liberal convention after a morning of parliamentary jockeying to hold the delegates in check while the platform committee in their eleventh hour effort to write a new platform to satisfy Senator LaFollette, adjourned at 11:50 until 2 P. M. It is expected the platform would be reported then.

The convention decided to adjourn following an announcement from the conference committee that a complete new draft was being prepared.

Frank J. Esper, secretary of the labor party, said the platform would be agreeable to all of the groups.

Make Platform Acceptable to LaFollette

Chicago, July 14—The joint conference committee of the liberal groups in convention here have finally agreed on a common platform, according to a statement today by Frank J. Esper, secretary of the labor party. Esper declared the committee, which broke up early this morning, held a further session and finally agreed on a platform which was expected to be brought before the joint convention in a short time.

The platform, it was said, was being re-drafted to be made acceptable to Senator Robert M. LaFollette.

Prepare For Bolt

Chicago, July 14—A caucus of delegates to the committee of forty-eight national convention, was held today at the Hotel Morrison at which were discussed the proposed platform and program to be followed by the forty-eighters. It was decided to keep prepared for a bolt from the joint convention. A further caucus will be held tonight.

Leaders of 48-ers Balk at Platform

Chicago, July 14—Geo. L. Record, Amos Pinchot and Gilson Gardner, leaders in the committee of forty-eight, formally said today they can not join a third party with a socialist platform and a radical labor leader.

The statement was issued as they

OMA SIMPSON

Should the world-renowned Helen Keller ever have a rival it would be in the person of eighteen-year-old Oma Simpson, now under teaching of Miss Sophia Alcorn of Danville, Ky., where she attends the Kentucky School for Deaf and Dumb. Totally blind and deaf, she has been educated orally, one of the few instances in medical history where this has been accomplished. She reads lips in the ordinary method used by the blind, placing her thumb across the lips with fingers beneath the chin. She can also tell what is being said from throat vocal vibrations, a remarkable method. She can hear over the phone by placing her fingers over the diaphragm.

are members of the joint platform committee found the labor party unwilling to accept anything but "the principles of British guild socialism as expressed in trade unionism language."

If the platform, supported by friends of LaFollette, is adopted by the two organizations, the statement said, the senator probably will accept the presidential nomination. If the liberals refuse to yield, the presidential campaign would be "a contest between the candidate of the new party and Eugene Debs for the negligible socialistic vote of the country."

Redrafted Platform

Chicago, July 14—The redrafted platform of the amalgamated group as prepared for the conference committee reads in part:

"The amalgamated group of the forward looking men and women to perform useful work with their hands and brain unite in the party of the United States, financed by their rank and file and not by big business, set about the task of fundamental reconstruction of democracy in the United States to restore all power to the people and set up governmental structure that will prevent seizure henceforth of the country by powerful, unscrupulous men."

Then followed in large parts the planks presented to separate conventions yesterday with some of the more radical ones strengthened.

Government ownership and democratic control of both railroads and mines was included. The capital levy tax however was omitted. The plank for taxation of land value was retained.

LA FOLLETTE'S NAME EVOKES APPLAUSE

UNITY CONVENTION MAY NOMINATE HIM WHETHER HE IS WILLING OR NOT

(By United Press)

Carmen's Hall, Chicago, July 14—A demonstration which threatened to stampede the joint convention of the amalgamated liberal groups into nominating Senator Robert M. LaFollette as a new political party presidential candidate, started during the afternoon session.

The demonstration began while Lester Barlow, president of the World War Veterans, in a speech was urging LaFollette's nomination. Previously a statement was read by Acting Chairman Walker declaring LaFollette would refuse to permit his name to be presented because of objection to the platform.

A huge picture of LaFollette was lowered over the stage during Barlow's speech. This picture was draped with an American flag.

GERMAN CROWN PRINCE SEEKS HOME IN U. S.

WILLIAM HOHENZOLLERN, JR., PLANS GOING TO SPAIN IF AMERICA DOESN'T WANT HIM

(By United Press)

Weiringen, July 14—William Hohenzollern, Jr., former crown prince of Germany, soon will demand of the Dutch government that he be permitted to emerge from his voluntary exile.

The former kaiser's son and heir, through friends in other countries, is quietly and painstakingly ascertaining where he can go if he is permitted to leave Holland, and is trying to find out in what countries he would be welcome.

Since it will probably be 10 or 15 years, in his opinion, before he will be able to return to the fatherland, the crown prince has decided that he would best prefer to live during the interim in the United States.

Discreet unofficial inquiries will be made of the state department in Washington in the near future, if they have not already been made, as to whether William Hohenzollern, Jr., would be permitted to enter the country as a private citizen.

If the United States government classes the former crown prince as an undesirable, he will probably elect to go to Spain.

JURY BLAMES DULUTH SAFETY OFFICIAL IN FINDING ON LYNCHING

(By United Press)

Duluth, Minn., July 14—The special grand jury which reported Tuesday on the investigation of the Duluth police department's connection with the triple lynching of negroes, stated it was their "belief that Commissioner W. F. Murnian was responsible for the condition that existed within the police department on the evening of June 15 and it is the finding of the grand jury that Commissioner Murnian is not competent to hold the position of commissioner of public safety of the city of Duluth."

The jury submitted a lengthy report to the court. The report reviewed at length the facts as they were presented by witnesses called before the jury and concludes with a finding that responsibility for the actions, or inaction of the police, on that evening rests squarely on the shoulders of safety Commissioner Murnian.

The report contains no recommendation as to what should be done in the case of Commissioner Murnian. It makes no suggestion that he should resign and there is nothing said in the report about a recall election.

He met her right, but on the arm of Nicola Raspa, a tenor of Brookline, with whom she had fallen in love on the voyage from France.

KVALE CONTEST DECISION SATURDAY

JUDGE JOHNSON TAKES CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT—APPEAL EXPECTED FROM THE DECISION

(By United Press)

Benson, Minn., July 14—Judge Albert Johnson, of Red Wing, will decide probably Saturday, whether Rev. O. J. Kvale, nominee for congressman in the seventh district, violated the corrupt practice act in charging his opponent, Congressman Volstead, with being an atheist.

The contest of Kvale's nomination by friends of Volstead wound up in arguing over Volstead's religious belief. Kvale, on the witness stand, qualified his charges of atheism and admitted he would consider it slander should anyone call him an atheist.

Several witnesses testified as to Volstead's church affiliation, declaring him religious, and asserted he attended both the Lutheran and Congregational churches.

Judge Johnson took the case under advisement and will probably render a decision Saturday. He gave attorneys until Friday to file written arguments. The case probably will be appealed after Judge Johnson decides.

5,000 REDS ARE KILLED IN CRIMEA

ALSO 1,000 ARE REPORTED TAKEN PRISONERS BY GENERAL WRANGLER'S FORCES

(United Press)

London, July 14—Five thousand bolshevik troops were killed and 1,000 taken prisoners when forces of General Wrangel trapped and surrounded 8,000 red cavalrymen at Crimea, according to a news dispatch from Constantinople today.

Wrangel captured a large quantity of war material. The anti-bolshevik army learned of the red location and closed in on all sides. By a signal they poured fire into the bolshevik ranks.

NORTHWEST WILL GET USUAL COAL SUPPLY

(By United Press)

St. Paul, July 14—The northwest will get its usual supply of coal, J. F. McGee, state fuel administrator, advised Governor Burnquist today. McGee telegraphed from Washington where he has been in conference with members of the national coal association.

"The coal problem has been solved" McGee wired. "We are going to get our usual supply of coal. It will be found in the next two weeks that 4,000 cars of coal per day will be dumped at Lake Erie docks giving the northwest its 28,000,000 ton supply of coal as contracted for at the mines."

HARDING ACCEPTS CHALLENGE ON LEAGUE ISSUE

AGREEABLE TO A FINISH FIGHT ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS RATIFICATION

(By United Press)

Marion, Ohio, July 14—Senator Warren G. Harding has opened his defensive and eagerly accepted the democratic challenge to a finish fight of the league of nations.

His statement welcoming a national referendum on the league issue, was viewed as his most emphatic utterance thus far and was a skillful attempt to split the democratic party on this question. His purpose was believed to be to "smoke out" Governor Cox on the league issue and force the democratic standard bearer either to line up solidly with President Wilson on the league question or come out for strong reservations and break with the White House on the league issue of the campaign.

Either course, it is believed, in the Harding camp, will drive a wedge between the administration forces and the democratic leaders who oppose President Wilson's course in the treaty fight.

When word reached the republican nominee that Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic vice-presidential candidate, had declared the league of nations should be the leading issue, he suspended work on his acceptance speech and issued a prompt acceptance of the challenge. Harding's statement showed a fighting spirit which put enthusiasm in his advisors here.

RED FLAG DISPLAYED IN ILLINOIS COURT

(By United Press)

Chicago, July 14—A crimson banner was leading a legal attack today on twenty alleged members of the communist labor party charged with violation of the Illinois espionage act. The red flag is the first exhibit produced by the state. A detective said he took it from the home of Edgar Owen, one of the defendants. The flag caused a sensation in the courtroom which had been dozing over technicalities in admission of evidence.

Several defendants arose rather uncertainly as the flag was unfurled. They apparently were confused and walked about the room talking to their fellows.

RECALL DAYS OF SPLENDOR

Empty Palaces of Mogul Kings Serve Only to Bring to Mind Grandeur That Is Gone.

Should you ever feel inclined to verify tales of "The Thousand and One Persian Days," which usually begin with something like "Once upon a time there was a raja who sat upon a golden throne, and slept upon a pearl carpet, and built a golden-roofed pavilion for a beautiful queen," you may journey comfortably to India, then on to Delhi and Agra, and see the empty palaces of the Mogul kings that are very little changed save that they now reverberate mournfully to the footfall of western-shod feet, and their marble walls have been mellowed to the tint of old ivory by 250 years of Indian sun. So writes Eleanor Madox in Asia Magazine.

You may walk among the colonnades of the great hall of audience build with flowers of lapis lazuli, jade, topaz and cornelian that seem to grow upon the walls and burst into bloom on the very spot where rested Shah Jahan's "Peacock throne," a florid four-posted bedstead of solid gold, with a pearl-fringe canopy, upon which the emperor sat daily to dispense justice, his turban ablaze with diamonds and his flowered tunic almost hidden by ropes of pearls. Behind him sapphires, rubies and emeralds glowed from the outspread tails of two peacocks, and over his head hung a parrot wrought from a single emerald, holding in its beak the Koh-i-nor diamond.

Early vegetables are not just flourishing in certain sections of Brainerd, but all wards report early crops. The latest to hear from is Northeast Brainerd. On Fourth Avenue Northwest the community has just luxuriated in new potatoes, green peas and string beans. The garden of Mrs. G. A. Anderson, 704 Fourth Avenue N. E., boasted sweet peas early in June and since the Fourth of July she has been supplying less fortunate neighbors and friends with huge bouquets of the lowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Mal Clark and Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Ingersoll have returned from an extended automobile and lake trip in the east. From Brainerd they motored to Minneapolis, Chicago and eastward to Buffalo. The roads generally were in good condition. There were sections in Ohio, 100 miles at a stretch, all cement paved. They arrived in Buffalo a half a day ahead of their schedule, after sight seeing in Buffalo and vicinity they took the lake steamer for Duluth, shipping their car by boat. All lake liners now have accommodations to carry cars. From Duluth they motored to Brainerd. Tiring just after a heavy rain, they encountered much mud at Tamarack, but made their way through by running on low. The entire trip, auto and lake, consumed just two weeks and two days.

Taffeta Rustles Everywhere

TAFFETA silk is, by all odds, the most popular of the heavier weights in silk fabrics, its only close rivals, in the high regard of women, being crepe de chine and georgette. It is used for many of their belongings and for those of their little daughters. For evening and afternoon dresses it is the pre-eminent favorite, and its gentle rustle this summer is going to last as long as that of the leaves does.

All the designers need do to make salable frocks of taffeta is to follow the mode and introduce a little originality in the details of finishing decoration. Two very excellent examples, that are up to date and original, portray an afternoon frock that is made entirely of taffeta and are having a decoration of white yarn.

Navy blue in taffeta, with decoration of white yarn makes an ideal dress for midsummer, and it is this combination that is shown in one of the afternoon frocks pictured. White taffeta faces the upper part of the long tunic and forms the cuffs. Blue and beige or blue and tan make combinations as pleasing, and are very fashionable this season. In this dress the tunic is set on to a narrow yoke, which extends above the waist and fastens to the bodice. Two large buttons that repeat the colors used, call attention to this feature. The tunic is laid in three deep plaits at each side, giving a widened hip line and revealing its facing. Three-quarter length sleeves and a Chinese collar are items worth noticing in the design.

Navy blue, black, or any of the favored colors in silk will look well in a dress like the ruffle-trimmed model pictured. It has three corded shirtings at the waistline where bodice and skirt are joined, and a corded tuck defines the hip line. Elbow sleeves and a rolled collar high at the back add two very important style details to the design. The narrow frills on the skirt have picot edges, and there is a charming lace vest in the bodice. It is the only detail of this dress that is not made of the silk; even the smart bow at the waist is fashioned of it.

Negligees of American Design

WHEN negligees come up for discussion, the temptation is to pick out these varied and fanciful ones that reflect the costumes of other lands. But there are others of American design that are really better liked by our own people and that merit the preference shown them. They are graceful, dignified, more or less simple garments, often developed in beautiful fabrics. They reveal an appreciation of what can be done with lovely colors when designers are not restricted in using them. It is in the realm of negligees that they can give fancy free play and be more daring than even evening dress will warrant and a little journey into the shops convinces one that designers make the most of this privilege.

Speaking of dignity in this apparel, some of the new negligees have acquired so much of it that they might be easily mistaken for evening dresses. Those made of light-colored broadened silks and satins, like the handsome example pictured, leave one in doubt at first glance as to whether they were intended to blush unseen by any eyes but those within the walls of home, or to be placed on parade. There are just some little touches about it, like its simple decoration of silk-covered cord finished with silk-covered balls, that relegate its usefulness to the hours spent at home. But the fascinating turbans and caps that are worn with these negligees lend them the unmistakable flavor of boudoir dress. The negligee pictured is a model that slips over the head and has a round neck split a little way down the front. Its edges are finished with silk-covered cord and silk-covered cord laces it at the front and hangs from the shoulders. The side seams are left open at the bottom and the material rounded off and bound with the covered cord.

The Transparent Hat.

The type of hat said to be having the greatest sale for summer is the one made of transparent material. This may be hair braid, malines, organdie, georgette or lace. So heavy, in fact, is the call for transparent hats that it is difficult to secure hair braid in sufficient quantity to supply the abnormal demand.

Short Vamped Shoes.

Short vamped shoes are having a decided vogue—the popular models conforming to the blunted toe, but the models put out by the exclusive shops have a more rounded, medium toe that is far more graceful to the foot.

Commercial Airlines.

The regular commercial air line has already come to stay. At present the longest passenger air service running, or rather flying, on regular air service is between London and Paris. The distance of 250 miles is flown in about three hours, often less. The fare is at the rate of a shilling a mile, or $67 for the trip. Even today these air passengers enjoy all the luxuries of modern travel. Nearly a score of passengers are carried in a comfortable cabin, seated in upholstered chairs. The cabin is lighted with electric candles and decorated with glided mirrors. Several transatlantic air lines are planned. It is calculated that they can be run at a profit by charging $500 for an air passage.—Boys' Life.

Success and Failure.

Ellis Root on his seventy-fifth birthday reception in New York, talked philosophically about success and failure.

"After all," said a poet, "it's no disgrace to fail if you have done your best."

"Maybe not," said Mr. Root, "but all the same it's pretty rough to have to admit that the best you can do is to fail."

China's Potential Armies.

If, in a war, an enemy started killing Chinese soldiers at a million men a year, and if China were using 10 per cent of her population in that war, it would take fifty years to destroy her first armies, and in that period two further Chinese forces of fifty million would grow up to confront their enemy.—Daily Matthews in the British Review of Reviews.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Buy Now While Deliveries
Are Possible

Buy your Ford car now while deliveries are possible. There is only a limited, specified number of Ford cars allotted to this territory. You will be wise to buy one now while we can get cars to deliver. A signed order with us is your protection.

Even our small allotment of Ford cars is not shipped us until we have bona-fide orders for them. This is because the demand for Ford cars all over the country is greater than the supply or production. So, don't depend on spring delivery.

Only so many Ford cars will be shipped in to this territory; only so many will be able to get Ford cars. If you would be forehanded and plan ahead, you will have us deliver you a Ford car as soon as possible. Then you will have it to use whenever you want it.

The Ford is an all year utility—in your home or business. Its serviceability, its ease of operation, its low cost of maintenance has made it such. It will serve you the year around. Spring and summer, autumn and winter, it is your servant; always ready to do your bidding.

PRICE SITUATION

IS A QUANDARY

Many Consumers Believed That By Curtailing Purchases Prices Would Be Forced Down

MERCHANT GIVES HIS OPINION

Silk Goods May Cost a Little Less This Fall, and Cotton Goods Perhaps Higher

"The price situation is as much as a quandary as it has been for some weeks," said a local merchant to the Dispatch.

This merchant has given the price question much attention and has just recently been in Chicago where he secured the views of prominent wholesalers and studied the situation from that market. His observation and conclusions are as follows:

"There is a universal expectancy of lower prices. It seems incredible to the average citizen that the present prices on wearing apparel is based on the cost of raw materials and a reasonable cost for manufacturing and distribution.

"The general public feeling this way and believing that by following the advice of some economists, ceased making their purchases to the usual extent. This action was thought to force the prices down.

John Wamamaker, the prince of merchants, believing that a lower price was sure to come, ran a fifty day sale in his New York and Philadelphia stores during which time the prices were cut straight 20%.

The sale closed and the prices reverted to the former scale.

"The public has ceased buying heavily but prices have not come down. Manufacturers state that they cannot manufacture for less than present prices and woolen mills and garment factories are idle from 2 to 3 days in a week at the time when they are generally running full time for full orders.

"Silks have suffered a slump. Raw silk fell from $18 to $20 a pound to $8 but has since increased materially. These best informed state that the conditions of the new crop, soon to be gathered, will influence the prices materially.

Cotton prices are stiff with a short crop. Goods purchased for fall are at a higher price than has yet been paid for cotton and there seems no likelihood of a lower price soon.

"Merchants generally are buying cautiously and are selling every surplus dollar of stock they have. Their stocks may be in a condition to meet any emergency.

Many manufacturers are urging their customers to buy and are as sure that there will be no reductions in prices that they are guaranteeing that in the event of a lowering of prices they will protect the merchant. This is the general opinion today. The whole mercantile world has taken new confidence within the last week or so and reports from New York are that merchants are fast coming in and replenishing their stocks at present prices believing that there will be no marked general reduction in prices for this season.

All this places a merchant in a most serious situation. He must provide selections for his customers. He wants to give them every advantage of price yet he must have goods and cannot wait much longer if he secures what he needs.

In concluding, said this merchant, much to my regret, I fear that the prices for the fall will be much upon the level of last fall and this spring with perhaps a little less for silk goods, and cotton goods perhaps some higher.

RESEMBLES THE HUMAN HAND

Skin of Bat's Wing Stretches From the Finger Tips to Ends of Toes and Nails.

The wing of a bat is a most wonderful instance of adaptation to a special end, for it is nothing but a greatly modified forelimb or hand.

If you spread out your hand and imagine the four fingers grown enormously long, while the thumb remains short and stumpy and the skin between the fingers has also been stretched until it extends from tip to tip of the fingers and on along the side of the body to join the hind feet, you will have a good idea of the structure of a bat's wing; it is simply a much exaggerated hand.

The elongated bones serve, like the ribs of an umbrella, to keep the skin stretched and taut when the owner is in flight.

When the bat alights it doubles up its "hands," the skin folds in wrinkly folds and using its thumb joints as forefeet it is able to run about almost as quickly as a mouse. The skin of the wings not only joins the hind limbs but extends from them to the tail, thus making the rubber with which the bat can steer when flying, and, when the tail is brought up beneath the body, forms a big or respectable wing of use to its owner.

A SMALL TOWN EXAMPLE

This is a little story from life for city workers to moralize on.

Howard Kirchgesser is a farmer living on the outskirts of Staples, Minnesota. Last week, while operating some farm machinery, he crushed his hand. For any farmer to injure a hand at this season of the year is pretty serious business, especially when help is so scarce and livestock and crops must be daily attended to.

Kirchgesser went to bed with his hand paining him and wondering how his farm would get along. It looked pretty bad for him. In the morning he was awakened by a commotion in his front yard. He looked out to find Mayor Harry Long, the Rev. W. H. Johnson, Harry Munson, Sherm Tower, Jerry Lynch and half a dozen other neighbors from Staples, dressed in overalls and equipped with hoes and other implements ready to keep his farm going while he was laid up.

And from sunup until sundown there was only death for weeds and potato bugs. Then the cows were milked and turned out to pasture and the neighbors departed for their homes.

It would seem that one must turn off from the asphalt pavements to find the places where life is still run pretty much as the heart dictates, and where the question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" doesn't wait for an answer. Is it any wonder that the Nation and the big city turn to the small town and the country for its captains, when this is the spirit that rules its everyday life?—Minneapolis Journal.

THE MEANEST SWINDLE

Warning of a new swindling game of which sick people and their families are the victims, has been issued by the Illinois Bankers association. It should be given wide publicity, for the swindlers will probably move on to new fields, now that they have been detected in their present location.

The game is for two men, posing as representatives of some famous sanitarium, to locate in a neighborhood. They find out who is ill in the community, gain any details they can concerning the cases, and then call at the patients' houses, professing to be able to effect a cure, and giving some well known doctor or hospital as their reference. After prescribing treatment they take either money or check in payment, cash the checks promptly and go their way. Of course, their treatments and prescriptions are worthless, and the family already burdened with the troubles and expenses of illness finds itself robbed of needed funds in addition.

It is a particularly despicable game because it preys upon the afflicted. Swindlers caught working it should be punished to the limit of the law. As for the public at large, it needs to consider once more the utter folly of entering into any kind of business negotiations, especially wild-goose medical treatment, with strangers or any persons whose probity and reputable connections are not definitely assured.

SECRETARY DANIELS

Secretary Daniels had a loaded cane at the convention, and pounded the floor with it. He made the first demonstration when a speaker said Wilson had been "too generous in his estimate of mankind" and drew a difference between fanatics and partisans. He did not patronize a hotel, but lived on a warship which he had ordered to anchor in the harbor for his personal convenience, and he brought his lunch with him. Only 237 days more!—Harvey's Weekly.

The internal revenue commissioner has ruled that physicians are to be limited to 100 whisky prescriptions every three months. Thirsty patients accordingly will pick a doctor who never prescribes for himself, and has a small practice.

Two good remedies for political despair: Work in a garden and go fishing.

How about a mandate for Duluth? asks an exchange. Somebody ought to preserve order there.

The farmer's the lucky man. He has his place in the sun.

CREDITS TREES WITH SENSE

Scientist Declares They Possess at Least Three Which Also Belong to Human Race.

The curator of the British Guiana museum, James Rodway, who is an eminent botanist, declares that plants possess at least three of our five senses—feeling, taste and smell—and that certain tropical trees smell water from a distance, and will move straight toward it.

But trees not in the tropics can do as well. A resident of an old Scotch mansion found the waste pipe from the house repeatedly choked. Lifting the slabs in the basement paving, he discovered that the pipe was completely encircled by poplar roots. They belonged to a tree that grew some thirty yards away on the opposite side of the house.

Thus the roots had moved steadily toward the house, and had penetrated below the foundation and across the basement until they reached their goal, the waste pipe, 150 feet away. Then they had pierced a cement joint and had worked their way in long, tapering lengths inside the pipe for a considerable distance beyond the house. There seems something almost human in such unerring instinct and perseverance in surmounting obstacles.—New York Post.

Sheep-Raising Industry.

Sheep raising is perhaps the oldest of all industries, for it was practiced even before agriculture. Wool is a product of cultivation or domestication, for there are no wild animals which closely resemble the wool bearing sheep. Floyd W. Parsons, in the Saturday Evening Post, says that with the discovery that cloth could be made from wool came an effort to improve the fleece by selection and breeding. The early Romans were most successful in this pursuit, and their endeavors along this line resulted in developing a fleece of great fineness. After the conquest of the Iberian peninsula Roman sheep were introduced into Spain, where they so greatly improved the native flocks that even during Roman supremacy Spanish wool led the world's markets, a prestige held for many centuries.

Telltale Faces.

"Nature seems to decide in advance, by face and gesture, what many people are best fitted for." That is the theory of Dr. Henry Chellow, who holds that by studying the faces of children, parents and teachers may obtain valuable guidance as to their future careers. The following list is a brief summary of some of his deductions: Triangular full face—Essentially a mental type. Unromantic, strenuous, eats little; thinks much. Feels little, sleeps little. Usually makes good accountant or engineer. Round full face—Essentially a vital character. Sentimental, easy-going; sleeps and eats all the time, does little work. Makes usually a good mathematician. Pointed profile (such as the Chamberlain family)—Uncompromising, inclined to procrastination.

In Old New York.

Chelsea, in the neighborhood of Twenty-third street and North river, New York city, was the home of Clement C. Moore, who wrote the childhood classic, "Twas the Night Before Christmas." One of the admirable old houses of Chelsea is that where dwelt Edwin Forrest, the actor. It is at 436 West Twenty-second street, a substantial-looking square fronted house, with a door of a great single panel. On the spot where the New York city hall stands, George Washington paraded his little army on a July day in 1776, and with grave solemnity a document was read to them that had just been received from Philadelphia, and which was forever to be known as the Declaration of Independence.

Largest Bible.

The largest Bible in the world is more than five feet two inches high and three feet six inches wide. When opened it measures seven feet ten inches across. It is intended for use in a special religious movement.

Bruises in Furniture.

Here is a method which has been of great use in removing bruises from furniture. Wet the part with warm water; double a piece of brown paper five or six times, then soak it in warm water and lay it on the dent. Apply a warm (not hot) flatiron until the moisture has evaporated. If the bruises are not gone, repeat the process. You will find this very good, and if the surface of the furniture is not broken the dent will disappear and leave no trace.

Old—But Feels Like New

J. E. Williams, 1035 E. Boulder St., Colorado Springs, Colo., writes: "I feel lots better since I started to take Foley Kidney Pills. I am 73 years old, and as far as that trouble I am a new man." Foley Kidney Pills strengthen and restore the kidneys and bladder to healthful activity. H. P. Dunn.

HARDING AT HOME, COX WILL TRAVEL

CANDIDATES FOR PRESIDENT PLAN TO CONDUCT UNLIKE CAMPAIGNS.

TACTICS OF RIVALS IN PAST

Some Made the "Swing Around the Circle" While Others Permitted Their Friends to Do the Speaking—No Set Style.

By JAMES HORNADAY.

Washington.—Unlike campaigns will be conducted this year by the rival candidates for president of the two big political parties, Senator Harding, the Republican nominee, will stay at home in Marion, Ohio, while Governor Cox, the Democratic candidate, will take to the stump.

These announced programs make of interest the experiences of the rivals in the past, and yet a comparison does not prove the efficacy of either. What has been victorious for one, may have meant defeat for the other.

When Washington was first elected president in 1788, the campaign, such as it was, was confined to a strip of country 200 miles wide, from Massachusetts to Georgia. Then, the population was four million, and now the country, ten times as great in area, is more than twenty-five times as large in population. But this difference in territory and population is more than offset by improved transportation, and the accessibility of the people through the daily press.

Twice Washington was elected unanimously. When he left office, the political parties had lined up, but it was for Andrew Jackson, the fighting Democrat, to be the first candidate for president to change the method of campaigning, which before his time was conducted with considerable decorum.

John Adams and Thomas Jefferson did not try the stump, because, we are told, neither was an orator. Henry Clay, however, was a great speaker, but was silent while a candidate. Jackson and Harrison toured their own states, but did not attempt long tours. Cass, Scott, Fillmore and Buchanan made a number of speeches, but in 1856 Fremont kept still and let his friends do the campaigning.

Too Much Speaking.

On a number of occasions too much speaking has embarrassed candidates—sometimes the candidates did the talking themselves and sometimes their friends, the most conspicuous case probably being in the Blaine campaign of 1884. Then, it was the remark of a friend that proved unfortunate for Mr. Blaine.

In 1880, Stephen A. Douglas, candidate of the more conservative Democrats in the northwest against Breckinridge, the choice of the slave states, undertook a whirlwind campaign throughout the country against Lincoln, the Republican nominee. Douglas toured every state, except a few in the South, his trip being the most sensational stumping tour ever staged up to that time. He was on the road for two months, sometimes speaking as often as twenty times a day.

Lincoln remained at home in Illinois, made no important speeches and wrote no letters on political topics that found their way into the public prints. Senator Seward of New York, however, took the stump for the Republicans and toured most of the country. For Breckinridge, a tour was made of the country by William Yancy, President Buchanan, Democratic incumbent, made one speech from the White House, and it was widely published.

With the passing of time, the candidates have more and more come to take charge of the campaigns themselves. The personal element has entered into the campaign more and more, and the parties in a measure have been shoved into the background. Bryan, Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson, have been great travelers. In 1896, Bryan stumped the country, but McKinley, his opponent, remained at home.

People Expect Speeches.

After McKinley's assassination, Roosevelt became a leader of the Republicans. He was a candidate to succeed himself in the White House, and both he and Judge Alton B. Parker, the Democrat, toured the country.

When Roosevelt left the White House his friend, William Howard Taft was picked to take up the work of president and he defeated Bryan, the latter making another extensive trip.

In these later days it has almost become a custom for the candidates to make the "swing around the circle," and the people have in a degree come to expect it. Presidents in person are no longer rare sights on the Pacific coast, and presidential candidates have been just as common there as elsewhere in the country.

Benjamin Harrison, however, was the first president to reach the Pacific while in office, but almost all of his successors have made the transcontinental trip.

And so now it comes that there is no set way for campaigning for president. Both big parties have played both kinds as far as the oratorical side is concerned, and this fall again will witness another one of the four-year feasts—with opposite tactics being employed by opposite sides.

"Red Hot Dollars"

One day, a grimy toiler at a forge. The next, a pampered heir to millions. Tainted millions that wronged the girl he loved. Come and see what happened.

ANOTHER BIG HUMAN HIT BY "THE BEST LIKED ACTOR ON THE SCREEN"

Deeper than a thrill, finer than a laugh; yet with thrills and laughs galore. A Thomas H. Ince production.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Best Today

Many of the episodes in Charles Ray's new picture, "Red Hot Dollars," which is being shown at the Best theatre today, take place in a foundry, and, to secure absolute realism, the company of players journeyed to a big iron works to "shoot" the scenes. They entered the foundry while the regular night shift was on the job. At first there was considerable chaffing of the actors by the workmen, but when Mr. Ray appeared in overalls and proceeded to handle the heavy sledges with the strongest of them, the joking stopped.

"Well, you're seeing in operation," said a machinist to the star during a resting spell, "one of the oldest industries in the world—the moulding of iron."

"And you," returned Mr. Ray, "are seeing in operation the newest industry in the world and already the fifth largest—the motion picture."

So it was that for "Red Hot Dollars" the oldest and the newest of the industries met. The story is about Tod Burke, foundry worker, who in return for saving his employer's life was made his protegee. Later, discovering that the rich ironmaster had caused the ruin of his sweetheart's grandfather, with whom she lived, Tod left him. But all turns out happily. The picture was produced by Thomas H. Ince and is a Paramount-Artercraft.

I got no rest at night as the pain was still there and in the morning I felt worn out from loss of sleep. My kidneys were not acting as they should so I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at the Skauge Drug Co. They soon fixed me up in good shape. LINEMAN KILLED BY HIGH VOLTAGE WIRE

Oklahoma Paper Describes How Marvin C. Anderson, Brainerd Boy, Met Sudden Death

BODY ARRIVES IN BRAINERD

Funeral to be Held from Residence, 511 South Fifth Street, on Thursday Afternoon

How death came suddenly to Marvin C. Anderson, a well known Brainerd boy, is described in the Picher, Oklahoma, paper.

M. C. Anderson, 23 years old, was electrocuted at 3:10 p. m., July 3, while connecting electric feed wires for the Empire District Electric Company one mile southwest of Hockerville, Okla. Anderson was an employee of the company and was helping a number of other electricians put up new feed wires carrying a current of 2,300 volts.

No one knows exactly how the accident occurred, but it is believed he was using one wire to an insulator on the pole and accidentally leaned against the other wire. His hands and left shoulder blade were badly burned by the strong current.

First aid was applied until an ambulance of the Todd Undertaking Company of Picher arrived with a pulmotor.

Anderson is survived by his father and mother who reside in Brainerd, Minn. A cousin who lives at Picher was working not far from the scene of the accident. Anderson was unmarried and lived here.

A strange coincidence was that Oscar Seipman, another employee of the Empire District Company, was electrocuted at Picher just a year ago, July 9th at about the same time of day.

Body Arrives in Brainerd

The body of Marvin C. Anderson arrived in Brainerd Tuesday night and is now at the B. C. McNamara chapel.

Young Anderson was in the navy two and a half years and served with distinction as a gunner's mate on the "South Dakota" and the "Frederick," a torpedo boat. Upon his return from service he worked for the water and light board in Brainerd as an electrician. He went to Oklahoma six months ago.

Well Known in City

Mr. Anderson was well known in Brainerd. Besides his membership in the American Legion of Brainerd, he was a member of the Odd Fellows of this city and also belonged to the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of Flint, Mich.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson, and two brothers, Henry and Joseph Anderson, all of Brainerd.

Funeral Thursday

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon from the residence of the family, 511 South Fifth street, under Odd Fellows auspices.

The sympathy of the community is extended the family in its sad bereavement.

Spell of the Witch Doctor.

In the twentieth century, according to the report of forward movement survey, there are approximately 120 million people in Africa held in abject fear through the hundreds of thousands of witch doctors who alone are believed to have the power of "spelling out" the evil spirits. The theory of the African native regarding disease is that an enemy casts a spell which enters the body and it must either be spelled out or cast out and this is accomplished by the use of charms which often kill before they have the opportunity of proving their curative powers. The natives of South Africa, the survey finds, depend entirely on witch doctors and herb doctors. For 8 1/2 million native people there are only twenty-three missionary doctors and nineteen nurses. Scattered among the millions, this little band of workers accomplishes wonders. But the sway of the witch doctors is practically unaffected.

Electric Incubator.

The electric incubator is said to be much safer, surer and more economical than the oil-heated apparatus. Current entering the incubator passes through resistance elements in the top of the box; these are arranged to distribute the heat evenly over the 75 eggs below. Double insulating walls prevent the escape of heat, while a thermostat keeps temperature constant. Ventilation is likewise automatic.

Bright Front Door.

To keep a grained and varnished front door in good condition, rub on very lightly a little brown boot-polish. If the door has a brown finish, and then polish the wood with a soft clean cloth. This is also a good remedy for scratched furniture. It gives a brilliant polish and hides the scratches.

BRAINERD'S NEW COOPERATIVE STORE

Two Store Locations at 618 and 620 Laurel Street Have Been United, Fixtures Installed

CARPENTERS, PAINTERS WORK

Much Preparatory Work to be Done Before Formal Opening of the New Enterprise

Carpenters and painters are busy at 618 and 620 Laurel street where the new cooperative store of shopmen and farmers will soon have its formal opening.

Large arched ways have been cut, thus virtually making one store room of the two. Hugo A. Schwartzkopf was at the headquarters this morning, supervising work being done.

Of the former occupants, the Crow Wing Cash Store has removed to the Gardner block and the Ole D. Larson grocery has removed to 1224 Oak street.

The new cooperative store will handle groceries, drygoods, etc., being in fact a general store. Backed by a large group of labor and farmer stockholders the cooperative store expects to do a good business from the very start.

NO LONGER SIMPLE PROBLEM

Matter of Food, in These Days of Statistics, Has Become Question of Calculation.

Once upon a time this problem of food was a very simple matter. Three times a day, as a rule, the attention of man was drawn to a hollow feeling located due east of the lower end of the vertebral column. This vacancy he proceeded to fill with a slab of bread, a chunk of beef, a pot of rice, etc., flavored as a rule with butter, jam, garlic, etc., according to race, religion, climate, age, etc. This settled the problem till the next call from the far East.

It pains us to say that this was living to eat and not eating to live. It showed no adjustment of means to end. It was a system of food that made no distinction between a longshoreman and a free-verse poet. It was internal anarchy.

Happily the truth has been realized. The consumption of food is no longer destructive but constructive. Man no longer eats corned beef and cabbage, but the vitamins in the beef and the polyzeugonatics in the cabbage. When he picks up the bill of fare he no longer says, "What will most speedily and cheaply allay the unrest in my far East?" but he says, "Where can I find the 12,500 carbonates that will give me the right outlook on the League of Nations?" And he finds it in unpolished rice. Or he says to himself, "I am now at work on the fourth act of my poetic drama; to make it convincing to Belasco I must absorb 3,200 per-maganazoids daily for the next 30 days." So he shaves the kernels off the corn and eats the cob. Perhaps with coconut butter, for the adged coloidal saxophonians.

This very midnight in our great city a couple of army corps of teething infants will be lulled to rest with 23,175 pneumodactylines warmed up in a bottle.—New York Evening Post.

HAD IT ALL PLANNED OUT

Colored Soldier Knew Exactly What He Was Going to Do With All Those Black Clothes.

Here is a story of two negro soldiers, who were talking just after the signing of the armistice:

"Rastus," said one, "what you gwine to do when you-all gets home?"

"What am I gwine do? Wal, in the first place, nigger, I's gwine buy me a white suit o' clo'es, 'n white shoes, 'n a white shirt, collar 'n tie, 'n a white hat. I's gwine be white all over, nigger, an' den I's give up you nigger folks 'n allus do my 'sociating wid white folks."

"The boy paused, then asked: 'What you-all gwine do, Jake?' 'Wal,' says Jake, 'I's gwine buy me a black suit, 'n black shoes, 'n a black shirt, 'n a black tie, 'n a black hat. I's gwine be black all over. Den, when dat's done, I's gwine buy me a big piece of black crape and fasten it round my black hat."

"Man," says Rastus, "what you-all mean by all dem black clo'es and by dat black crape? What for you gwine wear dat black crape?"

"Nigger," says Jake, "I's gwine wear dat black crape to your funeral!"—Wendell D. Howie in the Boston Transcript.

A Leech.

A man on the South side advertised his car for sale. Early the next morning a man who lived across the street came over and said: "Pardon me, but I see by last night's paper you advertised your car for sale."

"Quite true," said the man who advertised the car, "but surely you are not in the market for it."

"No," was the reply, "but I only live across the street and I also want to sell my car. And there would be no need of me spending my money for an advertisement if after the people were through looking at your car you could just send them across the street to look at my car."—Indianapolis News.

BRAINERD IN CROSBY SERIES

Battle Staged for Championship of Northern Minnesota, Dates July 17 and 18

AT THE EDITORIAL CONVENTION

Morse, Wines, the Whole Hard Hitting Bunch in the Brainerd Team to Face Crosby

Crosby on July 16, 17 and 18 will contain more brains, more high ideas, more pep, more ambition, more enthusiasm than in its whole history, for it will be the summer host to the Northern Minnesota Editorial convention.

Though about toppling over with the gray matter, room has been found for sports and chief among these to interest the editors and their friends and the range towns and Brainerd will be the great baseball series of two games played between Brainerd and Crosby, and the dates are Saturday and Sunday, July 17 and 18.

Morse, Wines, the whole hard-hitting crew of the Brainerd team will be at Crosby to give battle to the range town. There will be two of the best games ever played this season and the attendance from Brainerd promises to be especially large.

The games are being well advertised by the editorial association and by Crosby.

Last Game Between these Two Rivals

Went to a 3 to 3 Tie and Eleven Innings

Fort Ripley and the Speedwells will clash at the Koering grounds on Sunday afternoon, July 25, at 3 o'clock. The Speedwells is an All-Brainerd team and lives up to its name.

In the last game between these two rivals it wound up in a 3 to 3 tie at the close of eleven innings. La Force or Hannan will throw for the Fort crowd and LeNeau or Stallman for the Speedwells.

Admission has been placed at 25c and 35c.

BASEBALL BUNTS

In Sunday's game between Little Falls and Clyde Iron Works at Duluth a triple play, the first made in years, was pulled off by the Clydes. There was a man on first and one on third, when Bessemer came to bat for Little Falls and hit one to the Duluth third baseman, who tagged the man on third and threw to first, putting Bessemer out. Scholtz, who had been on first and had started for second, believed that the ball caught by the third baseman was a liner and tried to return to first base, but was put out. The ball was a hot grounder instead of a liner.

Horace Milan, formerly with the Minneapolis team, will be in the Duluth line up with the Clyde Iron Works when they play Little Falls Saturday and Sunday at Little Falls. He has just started working with the Clydes.

OLD TIMERS VISIT DISPATCH

Herbert Wood, of the "Baudette Region", is in the city. He motored down in a Studebaker and was accompanied by his wife and four children. Some 14 years ago Mr. Wood was a printer on the Brainerd Dispatch. He has been with the "Baudette Region" the past three years. Baudette is flourishing and doing a big business. A lot of new settlers are taking up land and going into actual farming in the vicinity. A big canning factory is being built in Baudette and orders have been received for fifty carloads of blueberries. Large orders have also been received from Duluth. In motoring to Brainerd the route taken by Mr. Wood led to Thief River Falls, Bagley, Bemidji, Walker, Pine River, Jenkins to Brainerd.

John Thompson of International Falls visited the Dispatch office. He is a custom collector in the border town and 16 years ago was a foreman in the Brainerd Dispatch office. Mr. Thompson is accompanied by his wife and they are visiting friends and relatives.

He was a poor actor
but he got by!

THE OTHER day,
I WAS in a cigar store,
AND A man came in,
TO BUY cigarettes,
AND HE had a cold,
AND WAS no longer
HE COULDN'T make,
THE CLERK understand,
JUST WHAT he wanted,
AND HE got madder,
EVERY TIME,
HE DREW a brand,
HE DIDN'T want,
HE POUNDED the case,
AND TRIED to talk,
BUT HE only wheezed,
AND HE made signs,
WITH HIS fingers,
BUT THEY didn't got over,
AND FINALLY,
HE THOUGHT he'd try,
TO ACT it out,
AND HE closed his eyes,
AND MADE his face,
SERENE AND calm,
AND SMILED and looked,
ABSOLUTELY CONTENTED,
AND THE clerk said,
"I GOT you, Steve!"
AND HANDED him,
A PACKAGE of
THOSE CIGARETTES,
THAT SATISFY.

SATISFY? You said it! Those fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos and that can't-be-copied Chesterfield blend s-a-t-i-s-f-y with every puff!
And the moisture-proof, glassine-wrapped special package keeps 'em the way you want 'em—fine, full-flavored, firm and fresh—always!

MEN OF STATURE

Only a Few Have Been "Giants in the Land."

Johann Van Albert, Recent Importation From Holland, the Tallest Specimen of Humanity Ever Seen in Modern Days.

When Johann Van Albert stepped from the gangplank on a recent arrival of the Mauretania he had the distinction of being the tallest man who ever entered the United States. His 8 feet 5 inches of height required that a special berth, made up of two cots placed end to end in a large companionway, be furnished for the trip from his home in Amsterdam, Holland.

Since Johann has left his quiet home out among the nearby windmills of Amsterdam and intends to enter the show business over here, it will be interesting to dig up some giant history and see how he compares with previous competitors who used to be great attractions. Probably no living giant in the United States ever exceeded the 8 feet attained by the late Captain Bates, who was a native of Kentucky.

The word "living" is used here because of the fact that for some time during the year 1893 the famous Cardiff giant led many people to believe that a 10-foot man had once lived in Onondaga County, N. Y. The story of this monstrous fraud perpetrated on the American public makes such unusual and interesting reading that it will bear repeating.

The idea had its inception out in Fort Dodge, Ia., when an adventurous fakir purchased a huge block of gypsum from a quarryman of that place. The block then was shipped to Chicago, it being taken in charge by a sculptor, who chiseled it into a 10-foot giant. The surface was pricked with needles to give it the appearance of pores in the human skin, and then treated with a variety of acids which made the entire statue appear of ancient origin. After completion the giant was securely packed in an iron box and shipped to Union, N. Y., where the owner claimed it, loaded the bulky box upon a large wagon and hauled it fifty miles to a farm near Cardiff. The giant form was then removed from the box and secretly buried, remaining under the ground nearly a year, until it was "accidentally" discovered by some workmen who had been engaged to dig a well by the promoter of the fraud.

This great discovery was made on October 16, 1893, and news of the wonderful petrified giant spread all over the country. The lucky finders covered it with a tent and put it on exhibition, while special trains were run from New York city and other nearby points so that the clamoring multitudes could see the astonishing remains at the earliest opportunity.

Until the deception was discovered it is estimated that more than 50,000 persons jostled each other in order to view the wonder, paying a dollar apiece for the remarkable privilege.

But, passing on from this greatest hoax, it is found that Captain Bates was the tallest of our modern American giants, although his 8-foot height was slightly exceeded by that of Anna Swan, a native of Nova Scotia. Going further back into giant history we find that Queen Elizabeth's head porter was 7 feet 6 inches high, probably being given this exalted position on account of his ability to see what was going on at all times.

Among royalty itself it is claimed that one of the Roman emperors was nearly 9 feet high, but the measurements of those days may have allowed him considerable more height than he would be entitled to at this time, though no doubt he was a person of great stature for history to make note of the fact.

World's Strongest Child.

Natalie Owens of Los Angeles, Cal., aged nine years, is said to be the strongest child in the world. She easily lifts a man of 175 pounds. In her father's dairy she handles cans of milk of all sizes, the largest weighing over 100 pounds, with as little effort and concern as the sturdiest farm hand about the place. In the public school she attends, she outruns all the boys of whatever age or size, and can trounce any two of them if the occasion arises. She has done this thoroughly several times. She is slender, not tall for her age, and weighs but 61 pounds, yet she amuses herself by lifting burdens that would tax an ordinary man, as readily as a woman raises a small basket of eggs.—Montreal Herald.

Hunt Sardines With Seaplanes.

California promises to be the greatest sardine canning center of the world as the result of the use of seaplanes in the industry on the Pacific coast. Since the first of the year naval seaplanes have been flying out from the sea coast, sighting schools of fish and sending a wireless back to the naval station giving the direct location. The naval station then telephones the information to the San Diego office of the fish and game commission. Fishing fleets are immediately directed exactly where to seek their game and are consequently assured of a big catch.—Wall Street Journal.

Describing It.

"What sort of a store is the Right place?" inquired a guest.

"Well," replied the landlady of the Petunia tavern, "I'll tell you. They not only sell suspenders, but actually call 'em galluses."—Kansas City Star.

LIVES IN CONSTANT DREAD

At No Period of His Life Is the Zulu Free From the Fear of Witchcraft.

The Zulu baby is born into the fear of witchcraft; in the fear of witchcraft he grows up and when he sickens and is about to die, his one thought is that a spell has been cast upon him for which the charm cannot be discovered.

All his life long he dreads to meet in lonely places the "Inswelabova"—an inhuman man, lacking only hair or fur to make him altogether a beast—a sort of beast in human form who rides backward on a baboon, ready to pounce upon and make medicine of the unwary traveler.

In mature manhood he suspects his neighbor, his friend, his brother, and even his wife of having dealings with makers of charms and poisons. He walks with an uneasy feeling that an enemy may have put medicine in his path to harm him.

From every possible source, from earth and from sky, from river and from forest, from friend and from foe, he is continually apprehensive of an evil influence coming upon him and searching for a talisman to wear against it.—Dr. James B. McCord in Medical Missions.

Traditional Marriage Customs.

It was an ancient custom among the Scandinavians to drink methagelin, or diluted honey, for 30 days after a wedding. In the island of Rhodes honey is still a factor in the marriage rites. After the ceremony the husband dips a finger in honey and traces a cross over the doorway of his home before his bride enters, while the guests admonish the bride to "Be always sweet and good, as is this honey."

The wedding cake goes back to antiquity. One of the important features of the marriage ceremony among the Romans was the partaking, by both contracting parties, of a cake made of flour, salt and water. This was done in the presence of the high priest and ten witnesses.

The use of the wedding ring is almost universal, but in the country districts around Cadiz no ring is used. After the ceremony the groom shifts the flowers in his wife's hair from left to right, for to wear a flower over the right ear is to proclaim one's self a wife.

Life's Real Meaning.

As the sun rises every soul is born again, and the new day gives us a chance to begin all over again. We can do and be what we will to do and be for the entire day. We can make it a red-letter day if we try hard enough. This is the way of growth. And if life does not mean growth, enlargement to us, then we have missed its higher meaning.—Orison Swett Marden in Chicago Daily News.

Harnessing the Rivers.

According to a group of British engineers, electric power can be produced by harnessing the tides of two rivers in Scotland at two-thirds the cost of that generated by steam.

Franklin's Queer Vision.

When Benjamin Franklin became the first American postmaster general the wheelbarrow was prominent in mail transportation. That Franklin expected something better was shown by his active interest in the first balloons and in electricity. He was not for one age but for all ages.

Easy to Change Name in England.

In England no legal formalities are necessary for a change of name. A person may call himself by any name he pleases, and may change his name as often as he likes, provided such changes are not made from fraudulent or improper motives.

Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate People In Two Weeks Time

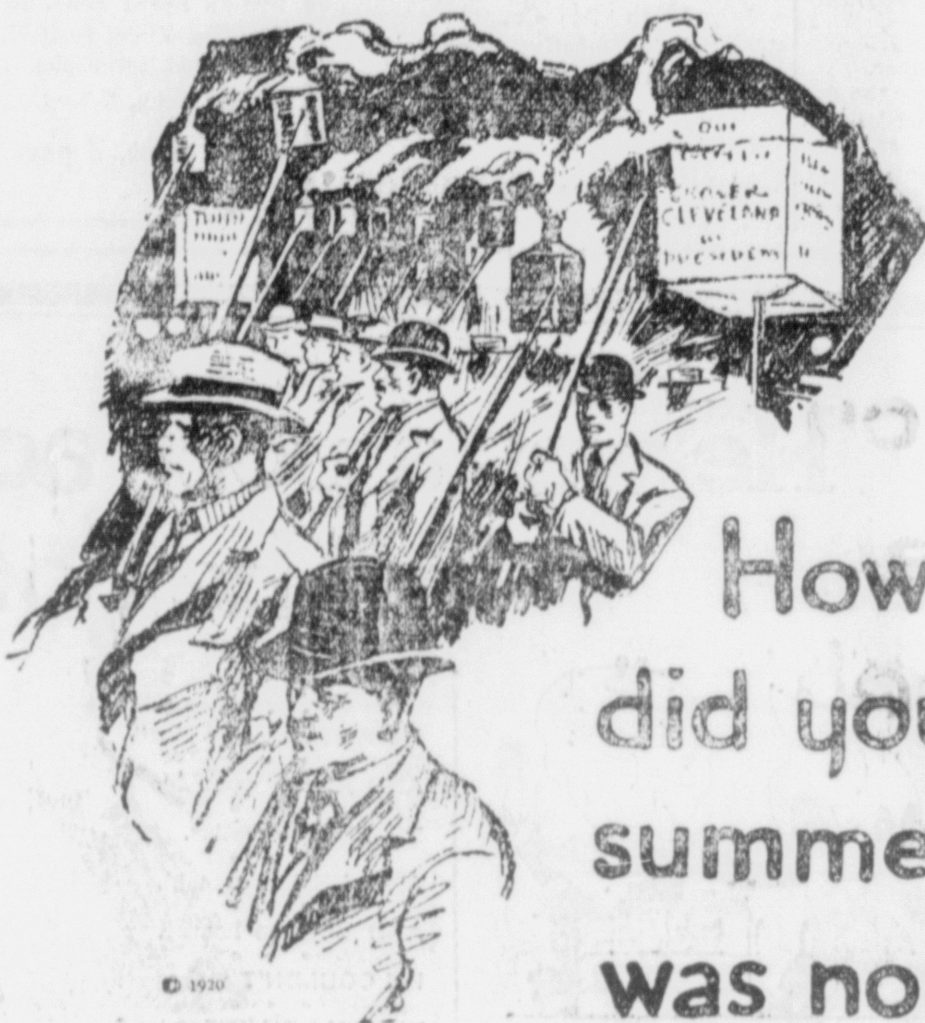

As many instances says City Physician persons have suffered for years without knowing what made them feel tired, listless and run-down when their real trouble was lack of iron in the blood—how to tell.

If you were to make an actual blood test on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied a multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue and therefore nothing you eat does you good; you don't get the strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. As a result of this continuous blood and nerve starvation, people become generally weakened, nervous and all run down and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is burdened with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble; some can't sleep at night, others are sleepy and tired all day; some fussy and irritable; some skinny and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance. In such cases, it is worse than foolishness to take stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, which only whip up your flagging vital powers for the moment, maybe at the expense of your life later on. No matter what any one tells you, if you are not strong and well you owe it to yourself to take the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. You can talk as you please about all the wonders wrought by new remedies, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks and good sound, healthy flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener and one of the best blood builders in the world. The only trouble was that the old forms of inorganic iron like tincture of iron, iron acetate, etc., often ruined people's teeth, upset their stomachs and were not assimilated and for these reasons they frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of the newer forms of organic iron all this has been overcome. Nuxated Iron, for example, is pleasant to take, does not injure the teeth and is almost immediately beneficial.

Manufactured Here: Nuxated Iron which is recommended above is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated, and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

REMEMBER the time the first automobile parade was organized? Even the good old torchlight procession had to give way before the advance of progress.

Tires are often sold the same way politics are.

The last people to wake up to what they are getting are the people who pay the bills.

The bills are getting too big these days in both cases. And the man who is feeling it most with respect to tires is the man who owns a moderate-price car.

The idea that the small car owner doesn't need a good tire is rapidly going the way of all mistaken ideas.

He needs it more than anyone else. It's part of his job, as we view it, to see that he gets it.

Our tire service starts with good tires—U. S. Tires. All sizes made to a single standard of quality—none graded down to the price of the car they will go on.

U. S. perfected the first straight side automobile tire—the first pneumatic truck tire.

The U. S. guarantee is for the life of the tire, and not for a limited mileage.

When we recommend and sell U. S. Tires we do so in the interest of greater tire economy. It is our experience that that is the best way to build up a sound and sizable business.
